Today stay local and enjoy some of the popular sights of the city. Studio Bell, The Home of the National Music Centre is 160,000 square-foot international hub for music in Canada and features five floors of exhibitions, three Canadian music halls of fame and multiple performance spaces. The award-winning architecture was inspired by instrument cases and the Western Canada Landscape. The neighbouring King Eddy is an exceptional live music venue and a great place to grab a bite to eat from its menu of Southern-soul inspired food.

Today also includes admission to Canada Olympic Park, a short drive to the west side of Calgary. Canada Olympic Park was one of the key venues for the 1988 Winter Olympic Games. See the iconic ski jump tower and a stunning view of the Calgary city skyline to the east and the Canadian Rocky Mountains to the west. Your evening is for you to enjoy at your own leisure, you might choose to visit one of the many craft breweries throughout Calgary, enjoy some live music or dine at one of the many local restaurants.
